PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE	Staff Researcher at IBM Research, Australia	02/2013 – Present
	Area: Modeling and simulation of bushfire evacuation scenarios.
	The work focuses on modeling and simulation of bushfire evacuation scenarios, including fire simulation, evacuee behavior modeling (e.g., population assignment, departure times, destination selection), applying an agent-based traffic simulator, post-simulation analysis, and building tools for automating the modeling workflow.
	Research Intern at IBM Research, Australia	06/2011 – 02/2013
	Area: Microscopic agent-based traffic simulation.
	6-8 hours per week. The work focused on microscopic discrete event traffic simulation using car-following models, such as the Intelligent Driver Model (IDM).
	Research Intern at IBM Research, India	09/2010 – 12/2010
	Area: Simulation of IT service delivery systems.
	The work focused on applying the software product line methodology to improve productivity in design and development of IT service delivery simulation models.
